Mick Porter and Steve Wilson have just completed production of a DVD-based curriculum entitled "A Question of Mercy – Gospel Application to Issues of Justice and Mercy".

The DVD curriculum has been deliberately developed to enable small groups to work through a variety of issues around the themes of justice and mercy, always working from the centrality of Jesus Christ. It is intended for use over six weeks, and each part contains a variety of content including teaching, interviews with people who are involved in various aspects of "mercy ministries", and other multimedia content. The parts each conclude with a set of questions designed to encourage open discussion around the particular topic, and a free study guide is available for download.
